4. Identification of the justification rationale. The acquisition is being conducted under the procedures of Federal Acquisition Regulation FAR 13.106-1(b)(1)(i) – Soliciting from a single source. The justification rationale for restricting competition is:

Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) agents are trained on the utilization of Nikon cameras for investigations, crime scene documentation, and other mission-critical assignments. Agents have to go through a special course designed for Nikon cameras, and procuring other cameras means procuring the new course as well, ultimately expending time and funding on retraining efforts. The commonality of Nikon's technically complicated functionality is imperative for efficient investigations, consistency in training, sharing of equipment, and the interoperability of lenses, lights, and other associated equipment. As a global investigative agency, agents transfer and deploy to assist other offices, and if the agency adopts non uniform model for cameras, there will be hindrance on cross team missions due to skill vacuum. Henceforth, procuring Nikon cameras is the only practical and cost-efficient solution for the agency.

- 6. Specific characteristics of the material or service that limit the availability to this/these source(s) (unique features, function of the item, etc.). Describe in detail why only this/these suggested source(s) can furnish the requirements to the exclusion of other sources. Provide a description of the market research conducted among schedule holders.

It is critical to ensure that NCIS continues to use the Nikon Mirrorless Camera system as it is familiar to agents across the agency, which includes agents beginning with their basic training at the Federal Law Enforcement Academy up through senior agents. As the Nikon training is essential for effectively carrying out investigations and crime scene documentation, the specificity of the complicated functions and interoperability of associated Nikon parts require consistency. This includes compatibility with associated flashes, lenses, lens filters and remote shutter controls, and also includes equipment in use by hundreds of members on numerous Major Crime Response Teams and agency Forensic Consultants, both being global entities. The requirement to re-train all users to become experts with other models or brands is time-consuming and is not financially feasible. The brand name justification is essential since other manufacturers were eliminated due to the necessity and effectiveness of the existing equipment in current use as well as the training pipeline.
