Description: Aiso Library is adding new furniture to create a more comfortable study environment. The last updates the library has gone through was for the installation of network cables to install computers and to build the mezzanine in 2005. That is almost 40 years with the same furniture throughout the library. This modernization is needed for the students to feel more comfortable studying in the library, in a relaxed and calming setting. The purchase of new library furniture will lead to multiple types of study spaces for the students on both levels of the library. It will allow for individual study space, as well as group and classroom environments within the library. New library furniture will create various types of study environments for the DLIFLC students. At this time, Aiso Library is the only space on POM that students of all military branches and both sexes can co-mingle outside of their classrooms.
