- CLIN 0001: Thermocouple Power Sensor Repair

Section C: Justification for Soliciting from a Single Source or Brand Name

As the manufacturer of the Thermocouple power sensor, Keysight Technologies Inc. is the sole provider for repair services for the asset. Keysight retains proprietary rights and specialized knowledge related to the design, construction, and repair of this specific sensor, and does not authorize or certify any third-party repair entities. Furthermore, Keysight remains the only entity with access to the specialized parts, tools, and technical data required to conduct repairs and replacements according to their stringent factory specifications. Utilizing any other entity for repair would therefore compromise the sensor's integrity, and potentially result in inaccurate readings and subsequent equipment malfunction.

Section D: Efforts to Obtain Competition

In accordance with FAR Part 8.002, a review of all mandatory and recommended sources was accomplished to include: internal sources, Air Force strategic sources, Ability One, UNICOR/FPI, GSA Advantage, and NASA SEWP. The results of the review concluded the required repair can not be satisfied by any vendor except the manufacturer of the item.

Section E: Steps to Preclude Future Single Source or Brand Name Awards

The goal of 355 CONS is to utilize the most efficient and affordable method of procuring supplies in an effort to meet the customer's needs and mission in a timely manner. We are consistently utilizing all available avenues to identify vendors via previous purchase history, market research, known resources and approved innovative methods. With each additional requirement received, 355 CONS will continue to search for distributors and manufacturers that sell Flotation Support Systems that fulfill requirements submitted by the customer.
